Troutman Sanders enters the Chicago market with exceptional talent.

TROUTMAN SANDERS LLP MADE A BIG SPLASH IN THE Windy City in 2009 through a merger and integration of a talented team of attorneys. Today, the Chicago office of this international law firm offers legal services in both the transactional and litigation arenas.

Chicago office managing partner Rebecca Ross heads the firm's nationally pre-eminent insurance and reinsurance practice group. This group represents a wide range of companies—from some of the largest international insurers to smaller companies offering specialty policies. The Chicago office also has talented attorneys practicing in the area of complex commercial litigation, including multidistrict litigation matters, class actions, mass torts and insurance coverage litigation.

The firm also provides extensive practice experience in representing life sciences companies, including pharmaceutical, medical devices, food, biologics and dietary supplements. The firm's life sciences practice team, run by Chicago partner Diane Romza-Kutz, can assist companies on federal regulatory issues, licensing, marketing, advertising and products litigation.

Troutman Sanders is excited about its entry into the dynamic Chicago market and eager to expand its presence here into other practice areas in which it already has developed an outstanding reputation. The firm also is proud of Super Lawyers® honorees Rebecca Ross, Diane Romza-Kutz, Eileen King Bower and Clinton Cameron, as well as Rising Stars honorees Julie Burgener, Stephanie Haas and Christopher White.
